Hongkong, July 8th, 1873.

THE news which has recently come to hand country, is of a serious character in its bearing upon the prospects of future free emigration from China. It is evident that JOHNNY CHINAMAN must be propared to face defendant was fined $5, or in default 21 days' a good deal of rough treatment, if he leaves his native land for San Francisco, which was formerly his favourite port abroad. The railway has long been completed, and the Macao, to a barracoon. large influx of labour which it was the means of attracting to the country is now becoming redundant-or rather it is beginning to be applied in directions where it comes into of Jone last he met the defendant in Victoria, competition with the foreign labor. This change has been working up ever since the Pacific Railway was completed; and the un- | together, and the defendant invited him to a popularity of the heathon Chines has now brothel, where they remained the night, each influenced the Government of the State of California, and increasingly heavy restrictions are being placed upon Chinese immi- go to Macao; he consented to go, and arrived at grants, who, it is hardly disguised, it is de- Macso on the 18th ulto. The defendant took him to a barracoon, where he was at liberty sired to see quit of the country.

the Chinese can justly complain of such restrictive measures, seeing that China forbids foreigners to reside in the interior of the refused to do so, and the defendant kept him country, and in an equitable point of view it would scarcely seem that she can claim more that she gives. It seems to be the to come back, but defendant made out he was poculiar destiny of the Chinese to spread thumselves all over the world; and it is $2, and he arrived in Hongkong on the 28th strange that a country which now so largely alto, and made a report to the police. indents upon the hospitality of other nations, should continue obstinately to refuse to re- the Queen's Road, he met the complainant, and ciprocate the privilege. -Hitherto the Chinese in the United States have had all the privileges of citizens; while Americans, in common with other foreigners, have been rigor. they met, to a brothel in Sai-woo-lane. "On his ously excluded from being treated in China, in the same way as every civilized nation now night. He did so, and next morning they took treats aliens. Under such circumstances, it is not a very great grievance that the Chinese | The complainant expressed a wish to accompany in America should be restricted in their competition. If Chinese are to compete with Americans in the United States, clearly accompanied him, and anything happened, he drowning at the Commissariat wharf. The jury Amoricans ought to be allowed to compete with Chinese here. Such views have probably had much to do with the framing of that slur cast on him. But the complainant in ment Civil Hospital, stated on the morning of engaged a pilot for the Malacen Straits, and triets; for instance, to be told in a plaintive tone the recent measure: and if such is the case it does not seem that the measure can l Chinese.

But, at the same time, we cannot but thin this constant harrassing of a useful class of Society is not very far sighted or politic. proportion of the benefit which the nation at result of the strikes in England is sufficient was all he was in debt, and he was not confined older than the others. The deceased and the very clearly to show how this principle works. The greater number of the actual necessarie years, deposed to going to Macao and paying ceased went out about 50 yards further than of life became largely enhanced in price, and thus the labouring man soon finds that the extra wages which he gets by striking, do not was as bad as she finds he is. compensate him for what he loses by having himself at the expense of his employers. He places. overlooks that in one seuse everybody is the employer of the labourer-that is, to the extent to which he uses the products which the him at his private house.

lindustry of the labouring man forms, and that if the price of labour is unduly raised. the nation at large must suffer, just as it would if the price of bread, or any other necessary, were raised.

It would seem, therefore, that the policy

d oppressing the Chineso in the United States is one of very questionable wisdom. There is a vast amount of work to be done, and Chinese are well capable of doing it To make oppressive laws against them will be to throw away one valuable means of developing the resources of the country, and while doing so of opening up new sources of industry and now means of employment. It is probably difficult to prevent such legislation as has recently been passed in a domocratic country where the voice of the masses is supreme; but, it can hardly be questioned that to place restrictions upon the immigration of Chinese for the advantage of the foreign labourer, is to benefit the few at the expense of the many—that is to benefit the labourers with whom the Chinese compete at the expense of the nation at large.
